Commercial solar panel suppliers

With net metering, you use your own generated energy, rather than what's provided by the grid. You make money back for the energy you add to the grid--and that means a new revenue stream.

Rely on Airis Energy for all stages of your solar project. From commercial panel installation to manufacturing and distribution, and even repair and maintenance--we cover it all.

Make going green good for your expense statement. Save thousands on commercial solar costs with competitive financing options, instant savings, and included maintenance.

Reducing the total system cost of ownership means more savings for your company. At Airis Energy, clients like you save at a ratio of 25-30% higher vs. other providers in the market.

Find the right plans and specifications for the best solutions, all without overextending your cost of commercial solar panels. Our sales and technical teams support you every step of the way.

When you install solar panels on commercial buildings, you need to consider the load. Our sales team takes this and other factors into consideration before offering you a proposal.

Service doesn't end at installation. Rest easy with maintenance and repair services from our in-house technicians, available within 72 hours of service request.

Your maintenance includes an assessment of the solar panels, the commercial property, as and the solar collection and storage systems. When you make the switch, solar panels save you time and energy on maintenance.
