Energy storage policy saudi arabia

In 2020-2021, in response to the COVID 19 pandemic, Saudi Arabia has committed at least USD 6.50 billion to supporting different energy types through new or amended policies, according to official government sources and other publicly available information. These public money commitments include:

A considerably larger amount of public money committed to supporting the economy and people of Saudi Arabia through monetary and fiscal policies in response to the crisis may also benefit different elements of the energy sector. However, these values are not available from official legislation and statements and therefore are not included in the database. Meanwhile, in addition to monetary and fiscal measures, the database lists other policies and regulations that can also provide benefits to producers and consumers of different energy types.
